PAHOKEE P. T. MEETS NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

All members of the Parent-Teachers Association of Pahokee are specially urged to attend the next meeting of the High School auditorium next Monday evening at 7:30.

Some urgent present necessities are to be considered and it concerns everyone to know the conditions and lead his help to the support.

FACULTY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bishop are making their home in the Pahokee teachers since their return.

Frank Hobson has returned from Tennessee where he visited his sister during the school holiday.

Mrs. Frank Colon has returned from a holiday visit in Cairo, Ga., but has not been able to perform her duty as a teacher since school opened.

Miss Mary Young came back to school Monday after spending the holidays in Falmouth, Ga. with her parents.

Rev. Chaffar spent Christmas holidays in Longwood and Jacksonville. Mrs. A. B. Crawford returned with him. She is a guest at the Canal Point teachers.

H. C. Wilson is substituting for Mrs. Frank Colon this week.

THE SENIORS

The arrival of the class rings was the cause of much excitement in the Senior class this week. It upset the so-called dignity of the seniors.

Every one is trying to get accustomed to the idea of studying again. But after having seen Santa Claus we find it is rather difficult to come back to ordinary living and learning.

H. C. Wilson, now of Pahokee, is taking Mrs. Colon's position as an English teacher and our home room teacher until Mrs. Colon is able to return to school.

As Louis Gold has finally decided to study, Santa brought him a new pair of glasses. Santa was also good to Elizabeth Struckey—wavy hair was a nice gift to her.

Dorsey Pugh returned Tuesday from Georgia where he spent his Christmas vacation.

JUNIORS

The Junior class has charge of chapel Friday and an interesting program has been arranged.

We, the juniors, have started this year's work in earnest and mean to make the best of the new year possible.

Made Thompson is out of the hospital after an operation for appendicitis. She has not been able to return to school, but we hope to have her back next week.

SOPHOMORE SOCIETY

By Hub Spooner

Mark Parker has been absent from school several weeks. We hope to have him back with us soon.

Two new members have increased the enrollment of the tenth grade. They are Christine Herrick of Hollywood, Ala., and Thelma Clark from Bradenton, Fla. school.

Emogene Sanders was absent from school Wednesday because of illness.

SPORT NEWS

By Oretta Thompson

The most talked of sport in the school holidays is skating. No sport has been talked about so much in school this year. All you can hear is "Are you going skating?" or "Let's go skating," or something about skating. It is popular both with the younger set and the older set. Those who can skate are learning and those who can't are learning new steps.

Miss Maude and Mrs. Bishop are skating. Carolyn Mock is learning to skate, too. She said that she had the foot just right to rise right up and met her. I think it must be in the habit of rising up and meeting people. Hazel Elliott is skating, too. Marion Cates felt and skinned her face. So she doesn't have to wash it because you can't tell whether it is dirty or just skinned. Lots of times it is skinned more than at other times. We wonder why? On the whole I think Pahokee is enjoying skating very much. It helps the old people by exercising them in the basketball players by helping to keep training and Marion Cates by not washing her face.

Friday night at 7:30 o'clock the Pahokee High school girls will compete with Jupiter in a basketball game. The Pahokee gymnasium will be full. They will have as their captain Gettie Smith.

With their practice and good playing they expect to hang up the first victory of the season in the first game.

Everybody come out and cheer their favorite player and cheer them on to victory.

CANAL POINT SCHOOL NEWS

Once again the Canal Point faculty is completely organized. Miss Williams, who was called to Miami on account of the death of her mother, was able to return to her duties on the opening of school. The Canal Point school welcomes the coming of Mrs. McClelland as a member of the Canal Point faculty. The rapid growth of the school necessitated the addition of another teacher. Mrs. McClelland has taken over the sixth grade room, thus relieving three teachers of much extra work.

The Canal Point school is witnessing surprisingly rapid increase this year. It is a task to keep desks on hand in sufficient number to take care of the rapid increase. Each room is crowded to capacity now. It is estimated that the enrollment will easily reach the 200 mark by the end of the week. The crowded conditions at the present small school plant has already reached a deplorable state of affairs. At present, part of the auditorium is being used as a class room for the sixth grade, which is very unsatisfactory.

Many of the teachers went away during the holidays. Miss Eva Hol spent much of the time in Port Maude visiting with relatives. Miss Maude Rogers spent her holidays visiting friends and relatives in Arcadia and Orlando.

Mr. Cox spent most of the holidays in Asheville, N. C., where he could relax in the cold weather in advance of the Florida winter, and also to get a rest from the two weeks of strenuous duty previous to the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers visited friends and relatives in Miami during the latter part of the brief vacation.

News From The Grades

Second Grade: We now have 45 enrolled in the second grade. Margaret Adams, from Morris, was a new pupil Monday, making 45.

During the holidays some of the pupils visited out of the district. This Friday is Arbor Day and a special program has been arranged. For this Morning Pope will tell "Why The Pine Tree Sings," William Sumner will read "The Needles," An Arbor Day song will be sung by all in the second grade.

This week we had lettering and the best received prize. Sybil McCoy received first prize, which was a colored picture.

Third Grade: We are starting off the New Year with an enrollment of 39 pupils. We have one new pupil, Annabeth Tillman from Port Maude.

Many of the pupils visiting during the holidays. Oliver Stapp, Vincent Tillman, Ed Padgett, Annetta Howell, Ted Todd and Ophelia Baker were among those who were fortunate enough to be able to take a trip during Christmas. Charles Baker and Carolyn Haden had out-of-town visitors with them for Christmas.

Fifth Grade: We are proud of our record which just to the rear of the school room. We have sold a bunch of radishes and a bunch of turnips and are going to use the money to buy a map puzzle.

Three new pupils enrolled in our room this week making 40 in all. We have Rachel Mills from Chattanooga, Tenn.; Charlie Yeaman from Arkyte, Ga.; and "Nip" Drumblender from Cleveland.

Sixth Grade: We are glad to welcome a new pupil, Grace Drumblender, formerly of Ohio. This brings our class enrollment up to 25. John Pitt is about this week with sore eyes.

Among our pupils spending Christmas holidays away from home were: Grace Drumblender, who went to Miami; Kyle Haid, who visited in Palm Beach; Sidney Tillman, who went to Dayton Beach; and Harry Sandridge and Leo Yeaman, who also went to West Palm Beach.

We had a spelling party Tuesday afternoon—all all who failed to make a passing grade were invited, nine were present.

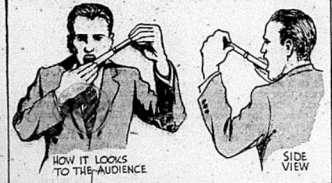

Eighth Grade: We now have more pupils than we have seats to accommodate. Three new pupils are having to sit wherever they can. Alvin Adams, who is a new member coming from Arcadia; Jas. Bryce Hall, a new pupil coming from Pahokee; and Warren DeWitt comes from Georgia. The eighth grade now boasts at enrolling a new member.

Madge Padgett and Norwood Guthrie were the lucky pupils of the room who were able to visit "Old Ironsides" while it was in Miami during Christmas. They described the old fighting vessel very vividly to other members of the class.

South Bay farmers are spotting tomatoes this week. Supply houses report good sales of fertilizer and seed. Hamburger business is holding up well and many improvements are being made on lawns and sheds. All places of business in that region are busy with some putting on additional rooms. Some stores are being sold as people are getting ready for cooler weather.

TRICKS OF MAGIC EXPLAINED BY WILL LINDHORST

TRICK OF SWALLOWING A KNIFE IS DESCRIBED

Take an ordinary table knife or a ruler and stand in front of the audience. Open the mouth wide and place right hand over lower part, as though to keep the mouth open. Then with the left hand slide the knife down the right sleeve and, immediately withdraw it. With a flourish, the knife is in the right hand. It appears to the audience that the knife is actually being swallowed.

EXPERIENCE SHOWS MISS MAUDE SHE IS HIGHLY ESTEEMED

As considerable publicity was given the arrest of Miss Maude Wingfield on a charge of being short in her accounts as postmaster at Ritta, it is worth while to give publicity to another aspect of the matter.

In 1915 Miss Wingfield was in Chicago in charge of the office of Holland & Butterworth, who were selling lands located at Gladesport on Hillsboro canal in the middle Glades. The next year she was transferred to the firm's office in Miami. She herself bought a tract at Gladesport, as did the late O. M. Baker, once the Gulf Refining Company agent at Moore Haven, W. E. Daniel of Moore Haven, J. R. Poland and others who are remembered as Everglades pioneers.

Finding the middle Glades too cold for winter trucking, she left the learning of the temperature on the shores of Lake Okechobee, several of the Glades settlers abandoned their holdings there and moved to the lake. Miss Wingfield located near Belle hotel at Miami canal. She had a houseboat built and there took up her quarters and put in a stock of goods; presently getting authority to open a post office under the name of Ritta. The Ritta post office was established in 1916. Later, in connection with her farm operations, she moved the houseboat a few miles west from Miami canal and erected farm buildings, a packing house and a pier.

The only means of transportation for many years was by boat, there being no highway, and if they did not have the local oracle and was called upon by all for information, advice and aid. Everybody on Lake Okechobee knew "Miss Maude." Between cropping seasons, or when crops failed, Miss Maude furnished supplies to the farmer-settlers; she furnished goods to the hunters, trappers, fishermen and boatmen, and if they did not pay, that was all right, too—their credit was always good—Men, women and children—white people, colored people and Seminole Indians, all knew Miss Maude, and when they were in trouble they went to her, and none was ever turned away.

The flood in 1922 did serious hurt to all of the upper Everglades—more hurt to the Ritta section than any other because it was the most populous, and most everybody got out. Many got out owing to the fact that the water was back. The flood of 1922 was a repetition of 1922. And then came the hurricane and flood in 1926, when her dock was washed out, her packing house wrecked and her store blown down and her stock of goods scattered and carried away on the flood waters. Many of her customers, persons who were indebted to her, were drowned. Miss Wingfield was urged to abandon the location and seek ease and safety elsewhere, but she was too much a part of the Lake country to be separated from it. She procured a new stock of goods and resumption in business, but under conditions more unfavorable than ever before, for the Ritta district was desolated and almost depopulated.

Although her stock was depleted and her resources impaired, Miss Wingfield remained at Ritta and continued her practice of befriending the needy. In all the years of her life on the lake she did an ungrudging and ungenerous thing, having been the manager of a big office in Chicago and having a background of sound business experience, her advice was sought and followed, and she was a staunch supporter of all projects for community and regional betterment, and her district began to prosper on their feet again.

She and her husband had suffered in 1924 and 1926; in 1927 a hurricane and flood of 1927 they suffered again, and more greatly, when hundreds of persons on Ritta Island and the mainland were drowned. Some of her relatives visited her and tried to get her to go away with them, but she believed in the country and was resolved to stay with it. In the good times she was coming, as she had stayed with it in its dark times.

The site of her store, originally on the water front, was not directly on the route of the new cross-state road; the store and post office were not easily accessible because there was no more water transportation, and new conditions were made use of by the newcomers. Several weeks ago the Ritta post office was checked up by a postal inspector to check the postmaster's return. The audit showed a shortage of cash on hand, and it is understood Miss Wingfield did not challenge the accuracy of the audit; she did not have the money and she believed that when reports were made from the depositories of funds the whole amount would be accounted for, and so believing she did not call on her friends, expecting to have time for making restitution, or a fine accounting showed her delinquent.

It is suspected that Miss Maude's pride restrained her from disclosing to her friends that she was short of ready money for her farming operation, or the conduct of her store. This brave and resolute and independent woman was too much given to helping others to unbend and accept help on her own account. When friends called on her at the jail in West Palm Beach with tenders to make bond and obtain her release she did not repulse them but she was disposed to bear her difficulties unaided.

There are not many persons left in the Lake region who knew Miss Maude in all the years of her life here; too many hundreds of them are dead, their bodies buried in funeral pyres or their bones imbedded in the mud. Were all alive they would have stormed West Palm Beach to bring her in triumph to her home, and a million dollars would not have been too much ransom. But those she aided most are of the voiceless dead.

One who knew Miss Maude in the early days is J. R. Daniel, who was in the immigration department of the Great Northern railway in Chicago in 1914 when she was in charge of the Holland & Butterworth office and it was from him that the acquaintance that continued through the 15 years in the Everglades.

When Howard Sharp, now publisher of The Everglades News, began work on the Palm Beach Post in 1918 he learned of the postmistress and storekeeper at Ritta and of the high regard in which she was held, of the way on the lake who was called upon to nurse the settlers' wives in their sickness and their children's sickness, who fed the hungry and sheltered the homeless, and financed the farmers when their crops failed.

By the stupidity of someone in the sheriff's office at West Palm Beach, the publisher of The Everglades News was delayed a day in getting access to Miss Maude, but when he got to the jail Thursday morning, Mr. Polk and was there on the same mission—a messenger that

MICK FARM

ON OKECHOBEE LAKE

One of the Finest Muck Farms in the Pahokee Section of Balm Beach County

This property lies on the Lake and Main Paved Highway between Canal Point and Pahokee. A very desirable location. Approximately thirteen acres of finest muck and over 2 1/2 acres on Ridge and Lake Front. Muck in cultivation. Store building, dwelling, filling station and small building rented at $450.00 per season. The store and dwelling has been occupied for several years by the Kilgore Seed Company and paying a rental at this time of $75.00 per month in advance. Pahokee section needs more dwelling houses. The situation in this section is peculiar to any other in the entire country, and a dozen very moderate price built dwellings, in this section, which is desirably situated for such, would bring a most handsome return and would not interfere with the farming land either.

Due to lake protection, farm land is as near front proof as can be found in the Glades. When the federal government starts work to be done around the Lake, spending several million dollars already appropriated, this property will double in value.

For price and terms see Mr. Miller, manager Kilgore Seed Company, which firm is located on property, or write H. M. Kilgore, Plant City, Fla.

South Bay Host To Belle Glade P. T. A.

SOUTH BAY, Jan. 8.—The South Bay Parent-Teachers Association was host to the Belle Glade P. T. A. at a joint meeting of the two organizations at the auditorium on Monday afternoon at 3:30. The meeting had been planned as a get-together meeting and was to have been addressed by Mrs. Wyoff of West Palm Beach, member of the County Council. The speaker of the afternoon for some unknown cause was unable to be present and local members filled in the time to make the program as varied as possible. The meeting was opened by singing of "America the Beautiful." This was followed by the reading of the message of Mrs. Hoover to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and a short talk by the local president, Mrs. G. J. Barstow, at the close of which she welcomed the visiting organization. Mrs. Jones, president of the Belle Glade P. T. A., responded with a pleasing outline of their program and expressed the pleasure of their members at being able to meet with the South Bay members in this social gathering.

Since a sixth teacher has been added to the teaching force of the South Bay schools in order to relieve the congested condition in the lower grades who was present for the first time, Mr. Nance, principal of the South Bay schools introduced Miss Ruth Royal as the second and third grade teacher and welcomed her to our midst.

Miss Beth Duane favored the meeting with a humorous monologue entitled "Shopping for Slippery for a Husband's Christmas" and gracefully responded to an encore. Miss Vivian Shepherd sang a solo, "Sweet and Low."

The final number on the program was the regular discussion on the care and training of the pre-school child as outlined in the course of study for the year being taken up by the South Bay group and was led by Mrs. J. R. Hoch who gave some very interesting information along these lines. The meeting then adjourned for a social hour during which light refreshments were served.

The regular business session of the South Bay P. T. A. will be held on Monday, January 11 at the regular hour at the close of school at the auditorium. All members and friends of the school and community are urged to be present and take part in this important work.

AT UPTON-GROVE BEACH
W. J. Ponds, a fisherman from Frostproof, swore out warrants charging Otis Uptegrove and Buddy Williams, the latter from Moore Haven, with stealing two shotguns from his boat. Officers found the guns in the attic of a shack occupied by Eddie Richardson, a negro on Jack Harvey's place. The negro said Uptegrove and Williams hid the guns there. Deputy Sheriff went to Frostproof to get the men.

WILL ROGERS IN TOPPER

A PANIC IN HIS NEW FILM

Maybe an old dog can't be taught new tricks, but there is no law that prevents him from adopting them.

This was convincingly demonstrated by Will Rogers during the filming of "Young As You Feel," his latest starring picture for Fox films, which opens Tuesday at the Prince Theatre, and in which the popular comedian portrays a modern, well-dressed man of the first class in his long stage career. Rogers was called upon to wear his hair nicely combed.

After the first sequences of the film were made, with Rogers in the role of an old-fashioned, croaky, set-in-his ways widower, Frank Borzage, the director, notified his star that filming of the dressed-up scenes would begin the next day.

The following morning Rogers appeared on the set in a neatly tailored dress suit, with penicilled hair, silk hat, and all the usual accessories.

"You'll have to let me dress your hair," Borzage told the famous comedian.
